Reactionary Academia Purges Ward Churchill

In 2003, Ward Churchill, a professor at University of Kolorado-Boulder released a book entitled On the Justice of Roosting Chickens. In this book, Ward details the hiSStory of the United $nakes of Amerikkka and likens the psychology of the average Amerikkkan to that of a German citizen after the fall of Nazism. This mass oppressor psychology includes the denial that any such genocide ever happened. The recent events of Ward's firing from the university prove this theory to be correct.

As Professor Churchill said during an interview with Kolorado Public Radio, you can say there was an American Indian genocide all you want, but as soon as you attach a number to that genocide, people begin attacking your credibility. This same type of pathology manifests itself in Neo-Nazis as they question if there was ever a Jewish Holocaust. Ironically, these same type of extrapolations without question pass for academic work when they are applied to Stalinist Russia or China under Mao; however, when applied to our own bloody history, this type of academic work is grounds for termination.

Amerikkka has not been defeated as Nazi Germany was. So this mass oppressor psychology lives on, as apparent in the fact that Ward no longer teaches at the university. In this case, the college administration has proven Churchill's 'little Eichmann' theory in that they have acted as the reactionary institution that has attempted to purge out the horrible truth in addition to trying to smear Ward's credibility: just like Nazi sympathizers.

In his book, Churchill expresses that the only way to end terrorism is to begin acting like a 'nation of laws'. RAIIN strongly disagrees. As Churchill's book clearly explains, Amerikkka has never been a nation of laws. To expect Amerikkka to all of a sudden act in accordance with even its own laws is not only unreasonable, but also idealistic. Mr. Churchill! knows this, but as far as RAIIN is aware, he has not articulated it himself.

Amerikkka was build over the graves of American Indians, ethnic Africans and Third World peoples. To expect Amerikkka to start relying on its own population for productive, exploitative labour would be illogical as it would quickly induce a domestic revolution. As it stands, just like Germany as the height of Nazism, Amerikkka is far from a domestic revolution.

Germany invited war because it encroached on the toes of other empires. Amerikkka has done that to an extent, but not to the point of provoking an intra-imperialist war. Nevertheless, just like Nazi Germany, Amerikkka will be beaten down and when the clouds settle, it will be Amerikkkans that are put on trial for crimes against humanity. Only when Amerikkka is put on trial, it will be by the people it formerly oppressed and exploited, not rival imperialist nations.
